~ Mother Daughter Book Club ~

Would you like a chance to listen to your daughter's thoughts and to have her hear you in a new way? Then join us for an intergenerational book club for mothers and their middle school aged daughters.

This group is tentatively scheduled to begin in January with meetings being held at 6 pm on the last Tuesday of the month. Please contact the Library at (920) 533 - 8534 for more details about this new group.

A Show & A Chat

Monday, November 26, @ 5:30 pm

Big Fish

Edward Bloom has always been a teller of tall tales especially about his own life. He has created a past for himself that has taken him from a small Alabama town on journeys around the world. His stories found him encountering giants, blizzards, witches and he even had run-in with conjoined-twin lounge singers. Now that he is dying, his estranged son, Will, just wants to get a glimpse of what his father is really like.

This magical and heartwarming movie is based on Daniel Wallace's novel by the same title. Interested parties are invited to borrow a copy of this novel from the Library to read before the program for a comparison discussion.

This program and the popcorn are free! Registration is not necessary.
